

WCBD News 2 – Charleston, SC
News 2 Today – 6 a.m.
October 5, 2009
Health Ministry Empowerment Tour
Broadcast Transcript

Anchor: A well-known health tour made its way through the Lowcountry to provide women with health educational resources this weekend. One of the sponsors of the Health Ministry Empowerment Tour Saturday included Imara Women Magazine. It's a Columbia-based publication that focuses on lifestyle empowerment for women of color. Those who attended at Trident Tech received free mammograms at MUSC's mobile mammogram unit, flu shots and a variety of health screenings.

Terry Davenport, Select Health of South Carolina Community Liaison Director: It's part of our mission at Select Health of South Carolina to build healthy communities, help people get care and stay well. This is one of the initiatives we do on a regular basis and we're very happy to do it.

Anchor: This is the 8th year of that tour, and the next stops will be in Aiken on October 17 and then in Rock Hill on October 24.